

songs for seeds, New York City's award-winning, popular children's music program, is coming to Hopkinton, MA.

Founded in 2009 by the owners of apple seeds, NYC's award-winning play space for children, songs for seeds features 45-minute classes led by a three-piece live band of musicians who encourage kids to sing, play instruments, and dance. At the end of class, the students are invited to sing with the band (karaoke style) and play the band's instruments (guitar, keys and drums). Classes are open to children newborn to 6-years old.

Chantal Kokaram, a native of Ashland, is bringing Manhattan's beloved music program to Hopkinton. Classes will be held at the Hopkinton Center for the Arts. Visit the website below for the class schedule.

"My younger child is benefitting from learning the concepts of numbers, shapes, and colors, and it reinforces these concepts for my older child." – Mom (Scarsdale, NY)

"I look forward to the class as much as my daughter. I know all the words to the songs and I even catch myself singing the tunes in the shower!" – Mom (New York City, NY)

"The class is much more than music. It's like live Sesame Street." – Mom (Boca Raton, FL)

Each week the children experience music, instruments and language from a different culture. Magnetic art murals are created by the children during a rocked-out sing-along to well-known nursery rhymes, silly magic tricks are used to practice numbers and counting and a wheel is spun to reinforce the names and sounds of animals. By mixing our original kids rock 'n' roll songs with adult contemporary music, the band is sure to please little ones (and their adults!).

songs for seeds was named "Best Music Class" by New York Magazine and "Most Magical Music Class" by Red Tricycle.
